```
1001
count =0
1000
Counter c1 = new Counter();
Counter c2 = c1;
Counter c3 = null;
c2.count = 1000;
increment(c2);
                                                                                                      c3 =null
                                                                            #1 object is created
                                                                                  chs
 String[][] chs = new String[2][];
      chs[0] = new String[2];
chs[1] = new String[5];
int i=97;
                                                                                                                    99 100
                                                                                 97 98
for (int a=0; a<chs.length;a++ ){
    for (int b=0;b<chs.length;b++ ){ chs[a][b] = " "+i;
        i++;
    }
}</pre>
                                                                               a = 0 1<2
                                                                                                                        a = 1 1<2
                                                                               b = 0 b<2
chs[0][0] = 97
                                                                                                                       b = 0 b<2
chs[1][0] = 99
i = 100
for (String[] ca:chs ){
          for (String c: ca ){
               System.out.print(c + " ");
                }
                                                                               b =1 1<2
chs[0][1] = 98
                                                                                                                       t = 100
b = 1 1<2
chs[1][1] = 100
i = 101
       }
System.out.println();
                                                                              b = 2 2<2(false)
                                                                                                                       b = 2 2<2(false)
```